Course Description

In this course we will examine the basics of phonology, in particular the rules, processes and constraints that are employed in the phonology of English. The goal of the course is to provide students with a basic understanding of phonology and of the sound system of English by means of a combination of lectures discussing the issues and practical group exercises, where there will be an opportunity to practise the principles discussed in lectures. This class will be aimed at students with little or no background in phonology.

Course Textbook

The textbook for this class is:

Stonham, John. 2009. Introduction to Phonology. Seoul: Hankuk Munhwas.

Students may also wish to consult one or more of the recommended books below.

Course Website

There is a website for this class where information about lectures, homework assignments, exams, and various other things will be posted. Students should visit the site regularly to check for updates.
